

David Whitney

David is a specialist commercial litigator with expertise in professional negligence and disciplinary matters. Until recently he was a senior associate in a leading City practice where he acted for a variety of professional service firms in connection with their defence of high profile cases.

He has worked closely with trainee and newly qualified solicitors throughout his career, overseeing training requirements, facilitating workshop sessions and providing individual mentoring.

David provides skills training for fresh Legal in areas including business development, client relationship management, communication, litigation, personal effectiveness and practice management and compliance.